"I know of no mode in which a loyal citizen may so well demonstrate his devotion to his country as by sustaining the Flag the Constitution and the Union, under all circumstances, and UNDER EVERY ADMINISTRATION, REGARDLESS OF PARTY POLITICS, AGAINST ALL ASSAILANTS, AT HOME AND ABROAD."—STEPHEN A. DOUGLAS.

THE GLOBE.—Some of the rebel sympathisers have been very busy circulating a report that the publication of the Globe was discontinued for want of patronage. We have no excuses to offer for not issuing our paper last and the week previous, other than the want of hands to do the work and the inclination to make dollars while the rebels were knocking at our door. All our paper hands nobly responded to the call of our patriotic Governor, but we expect to be able, now that the Southern rebels have been driven back, to be able to recruit another force to enable us to issue the Globe regularly after this week.

Camp of Rendezvous.

The men here are thrown into three seperate Camps; camp "Warrior" and "Juniata" are located on the Kerr estate on the opposite side of the river, and camp "Huntingdon" is located on the hill back of town. The latter camp is for the cavalry. There are now ten companies in camp Warrior, several squads in camp Juniata, and one company in camp Huntingdon, in all about one thousand men. Companies and squads are arriving daily.

HEADQUARTERS, Huntingdon Pa., July 7th, 1863.

SPECIAL ORDER.

The officer commanding the forces in rendezvous at and near Huntingdon, takes this opportunity on behalf of the troops now in camp, to return thanks to the patriotic citizens for the hospitable manner in which the soldiers were received and cared for upon their enterance into the town, and for the many kindnesses received at the hands of the ladies during their stay.

They are also indebted to Mr. John Scott, State Mustering officer, and other gentlemen, for their active exertions in procuring comfortable quarters while they were compelled to remain in the town, owing to the delay in the arrival of the camp and garrison equipage.

By order of Commanding officer. Wm. A. H. Lewis, Capt. and A. A. A. Genl.

A Noble Contribution.

The following letter was received on Saturday last from a former citizen of this county. Mr. Powel shows that his heart is in the right place, and he has placed the soldiers of this county who have recently left their homes to drive out the invader, under lasting obligations to him:

PHILA., July 3d, 1863.

WILLIAM DORRIS, Jr. Esq.—Dear Sir—Availing myself of my personal acquaintance with you, I have considered it proper to intrust to your distribution my enclosed check for one thousand dollars.

It is hoped that this donation, although as it were small as a dew drop, may tend to support the union of our country, and, above all, yield comfort to the ever remembered volunteers from your county, who may serve in defence of our liberty and the peace of our firesides.

Having for a long time associated with the inhabitants of Huntingdon county, and having experienced their kindness, and to a great extent enjoyed the benefits of their labor, I have conceived it eminently my duty in this emergency to remit this tribute of my esteem.

I am respectfully,
ROBERT H. POWEL.

The Latest from the front.

HARRISBURG, July 8th, two o'clock P. M.—Persons who came from the front to-day, bring intelligence of the most cheering character concerning the spirit, strength and position of Gen. Meade's forces. "The Army of the Potomac is in better condition, so far as order is concerned, than when it fought and won the battle of Gettysburg, and no doubt is entertained by its gallant leader, of his entire ability not only to conquer but to capture the main body of the rebel forces."

THE MONITOR.—This bogus concern made its appearance again on Friday last, but with a new editor, the clique in town having read the thing Owen out of the party—or at least out of the editorial chair. J. Irvin Steel, a young man from Blairsville, Indiana county, where he published a vile secession sheet until it died some two or three weeks ago for want of patronage, is the new editor. This young man Steel is just the fellow to suit the bogus Democracy of the county. His first effort here must convince everybody, even the readers of the Monitor, that he can LIE as c-a-s-y as Owen and his assistants Petrikin, Caldwell, Speer, Africa & Co., who we have no doubt will assist J. Irvin Steel in his duties as editor of the rebel sheet.

We will give our readers a specimen of the truth contained in the first number of the new Monitor. Speaking of the destruction of the Monitor in May last, J. Irvin Steel says:

"An attempt has been made to create the impression that the soldiers of the 125th Regiment, indignant at the course of the Monitor, sought to appease their patriotism in the destruction of the office. But the parties who have studiously circulated this story, knows, or ought to know, that it is a base falsehood. The soldiers of this Regiment had no part in this cowardly outrage and condemned its perpetrators in the severest terms."

If it be true that the soldiers of the 125th had no part in the destruction of the Monitor office, why did Petrikin write out the charge and have it sworn to by Owen, that some twenty men of the 125th, and others, did destroy the office. And why were these men arrested and bound over for trial for the destruction of the office if they had no part in its destruction?

Camp Juniata.

Huntingdon, July 7th, '63.

At a meeting of Captain William P. Dale's company, three months volunteer militia, Lieut. B. J. Laporte was called to the chair, and Wilson Gardner appointed Secretary. The object of the meeting as set forth in the resolutions, was stated by the chair.

On motion, Joseph B. Erb, Amos E. Clemson, J. E Thomas, Prof. T. Weaver, Dr. L. O. Khempfer, Lieutenant Ross, William Curry, Alexander Ewing and W. W. Mays, were appointed to draft resolutions.

The Committee through their chairman reported the following which were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, In the exigency of peril, and the consequent confusion in supplying the necessary wants of the troops assembled at this point in defence of our old Commonwealth against the hordes of traitors invading her soil, the ladies of Huntingdon came forward and cheerfully undertook, not only the preparation of the rations supplied, but also, furnished us with luxuries denied the soldier, thus giving their cheerful aid and winning smiles to the great work. Therefore,

Resolved, That as members of Capt. Dale's Company, we do hereby desire to tender our unfeigned and hearty thanks to those noble and patriotic ladies, and more particularly to Miss Mollie Orbison and her co-adjutors, who especially waited upon us, and receive those acts of kindness as strong testimony of unwavering loyalty and self denial on their part.

Resolved, That these resolutions be published in the Huntingdon Globe and Huntingdon Journal & American.

B. J. LAPORTE, Ch'm.
Wilson Gardner, Sec'y.

Most heartily approved by W. P. Dale, Capt. Com'g Co.

TO ARMS! TO ARMS!

The Governor has called for sixty thousand of the Militia of the Commonwealth, to drive out the invaders of our soil and our homes. In apportioning this number Huntingdon county is required to raise 502, after receiving credit for the Six Months' Men already mustered in. In the absence of any legal mode of calling for those proportions of this number from the several boroughs and townships in the County, the undersigned, appointed a committee by a meeting held this morning in Huntingdon for that purpose, assume the liberty of appealing to the patriotism and State pride of the citizens, at once to come forward and fill this requisition. We have made a calculation from the best data we could obtain for ascertaining what number of men each borough and township should furnish in an equal response to the Governor's call. The number would be as follows:

Cass township,	14	Barree,	25
Cassville,	5	Morris,	14
Henderson,	12	Union,	19
Huntingdon,	40	Springfield,	12
Shirley,	35	Clay,	19
Shirleysburg,	9	Oneida,	9
Cromwell,	20	Franklin,	35
Orbisonia,	5	Penn,	20
Warriorsmark,	25	Walker,	18
Birmingham,	5	Tod,	20
Porter,	25	Carbon,	50
Alexandria,	12	Hopewell,	22
West,	30	Juniata,	9
Petersburg,	8	Tell,	11
Brady,	20	Dublin,	9
Jackson,	36

Do you need any other appeal than to be told that the enemy has already penetrated over seventy miles within our borders, carrying sorrow and desolation in his track; that he has lighted the fires of conflagration on the Susquehanna, and that he is at this moment within sight and perhaps opening fire upon the State Capital? Pennsylvania sent the first troops to save the nation's Capital,—let it not be said that she faltered when her own was in peril—when the lives, the property and sanctity of the homes of our citizens are all in danger. Let each township and borough at once raise at least its quota, and as many more as possible, and have them ready to move to the appointed rendezvous.—The Adjt. Gen'l. has fixed Huntingdon as a rendezvous, and has appointed John Scott, Esq., mustering-in officer for this point. Let the men assemble at the most convenient points in the townships to move whenever apprised that the rendezvous is ready for their reception. We request the citizens to report progress when men are ready. Tents and Stores are being forwarded, and the Adjutant General directs that the men be not hurried here until these things are ready for them.

Headquarters of the Army of the Potomac, July 2.—11 o'clock P. M.

The enemy attacked me about four o'clock this afternoon, and after one of the severest contests of the war, was repulsed at all points.

We have suffered considerably in killed and wounded.

Among the killed are Brigadier Generals Paul and Zook, and among the wounded, Generals Sickles, Barton, Graham and Warren, slightly.

We have taken a large number of prisoners.

[SECOND DESPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, July 3.—A later despatch has been received from Major General Meade, dated at 8 o'clock this morning, which says:

"The action commenced again at early daylight upon various parts of the line. The enemy, thus far, have made no impression upon my position.

"All accounts agree in placing the entire rebel army in position in our front. The prisoners we have taken report that Longstreet's and A. P. Hill's forces were much injured yesterday, and many general officers killed.

"The dead body of General Barksdale, of Mississippi, is within our lines.

"We have, thus far, about 1,600 prisoners, and a small number are yet to be started."

[This number of prisoners, sixteen hundred, is as stated in Gen. Meade's official despatch. He may possibly mean that they were captured in the fight of Thursday night and Friday morning, or the previous statements of correspondents may have been exaggerated.]

Glorious Victory!

LEE DEFEATED!

His Whole Force Routed!

Rebels in Full Retreat!

BALTIMORE, July 5—The Battle yesterday terminated in a Glorious Victory.

In the morning, before the commencement of the fight, Gen. Lee asked for a cessation of hostilities, in order to give him time to carry off his wounded and bury his dead.

Gen. Meade replied that he could not consent to anything but an unconditional surrender.

The fight was then renewed with the most desperate fury.

The Rebels finally broke, and fled to the mountains toward the North West.

General meade had previously cut off their retreat to the South.

Gen. Meade has captured between fifteen and twenty thousand prisoners.

General Meade has also captured one hundred and eighteen pieces of artillery.

STILL LATER.

BALTIMORE, July 5.—11½ P. M.

The war correspondent of the Journal has just arrived from yesterday's battle field. He states that the route of General Lee was thorough and complete.

General Meade has not only captured twenty thousand Rebels, but has re-captured all our own troops who were previously in the hands of the enemy.

We are indebted to the Independent Line of Telegraph for the prompt manner in which our special dispatches were transmitted.

Important expedition to Williamsport

The rebel Pontoon bridge destroyed

CAPTURE OF THE GUARD.

WASHINGTON, July 5.—The following dispatch has been received:

FREDERICK, Md., July 4, 8 P. M.

To Major General Halleck, Commander in chief:

An expedition sent out by me has just returned, having entirely destroyed the enemy's pontoon bridge over the Potomac at Williamsport, and capturing the guard, consisting of one hundred and thirteen men.

H. H. FRENCH, Major General.

A Glowing Account of the Battle of the 3d.

NEW YORK, July 5th.—The Herald publishes the following special in an extra:

GETTYSBURG, July 4.—THE GLORIOUS FOURTH!—The greatest and most glorious battle of the war.

The rebels completely routed—Longstreet and Hill wounded and in our hands. The fighting yesterday was beyond all parallel. The enemy attempted to turn our right and left flanks, and afterwards our centre.

They were repulsed on all sides.—The enemy then made a general attack on our whole line, but was terribly defeated. The victory of the Union was complete. The enemy is in full retreat, pursued by our troops.

[From Tuesday's Globe Extra.]

The Situation.

From the Harrisburg Telegraph July 7.

It now seems to be admitted and anticipated that Lee will be compelled to meet Meade at a point somewhere between Hagerstown and the Potomac, and that Williamsport, some five miles from Hagerstown, is the locality fixed for the final great battle. In order to secure the meeting Lee will be permitted, we presume, to withdraw from Pennsylvania. He will be suffered to move on to an open field, where again the power and fortitude of the two great armies will be tested, and where, we have no doubt, the final overwhelming blow will be deal at rebellion.

NINE O'CLOCK, P. M., July 6.—Dispatches received at this hour were to the effect that General Gregg, with a heavy force of Cavalry, was driving the rebels towards Green Castle. It is supposed that the body flying before General Gregg is merely a portion of the main army of Lee which is seeking to take position for the great struggle anticipated to come off on the banks of the Potomac near Williamsport. The same dispatches also state that Gen. Gregg has taken four thousand prisoners.

The country in the neighborhood of Green Castle is filled with rebel stragglers, who seek shelter wherever there is a bush or a cavern to conceal themselves.

The fords on the Potomac are in the hands of our troops.

The advance of the Pennsylvania militia under Gen. Smith is hailed by Gen. Meade as auspicious for the final success of his army.

Congratulatory Order of Gen. Meade.

GENERAL ORDER NO. 68.

Headquarters Army of the Potomac, Near Gettysburg, July 4.

The commanding General, in behalf of the country, thanks the Army of the Potomac for the glorious result of the recent operations.

The enemy superior in numbers and flushed with the pride of a successful invasion, attempted to overcome or or destroy this army.

Utterly baffled and defeated, he has now withdrawn from the contest.

The privations and fatigues which the army has endured, and the heroic courage and gallantry it has displayed, will be matters of history to be ever remembered.

Our task is not yet accomplished, and the Commanding General looks to the army for greater efforts to drive from our soil every vestige of the presence of the invader.

It is right and proper that we should, on a suitable occasion, return our thanks to the Almighty Disposor of Events, that in the goodness of His Providence He has thought fit to give victory to the cause of the just. By command of

MAJOR-GENERAL MEADE.
(Signed) S WILLIAMS.

The Retreat of the Rebels.

NEAR GETTYSBURG, July 5, via WASHINGTON, July 6.

The enemy have retreated towards the Potomac.

Their skirmishers were driven in last night, and a small cavalry force, probably the rear guard, passed thro' Emmittsburg this morning about daylight.

Our troops have been engaged all day in burying the dead, relieving the wounded and collecting arms, many thousand of which belonged to the rebels. The rebel pontoon bridge at Dam No. 4 has been destroyed by our cavalry, who were almost entirely unopposed, and the cavalry, at the last advices, had gone up to Williamsport to destroy the two bridges there.

Other preparations are in progress to intercept Lee's passage of the Potomac, and our army is already in motion.

So much time, however, has elapsed since Lee commenced to withdraw from our front that his advance may have reached Williamsport in time to cross before we could prevent it.

Gen. Lee yesterday paroled about 2,000 prisoners. They were received by Gen. Couch.

The Victory at Gettysburg.

BALTIMORE, Sunday, July 5.

The American's intelligence from the battle field, up to ten o'clock this morning, represents the rebels holding a position in the mountains, near cashtown, and fortifying. General Meade has advanced to the enemy's lines.—There has been some skirmishing, but no battle. Pleasonton has captured a large train of the enemy and many prisoners. The enemy left all his wounded in our hands, and thousands of dead. He is believed to be retreating toward Hancock. There is no truth in the report of the capture of Longstreet or Hill. There is a dead Major General in our hands—name unknown.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF POTOMAC, Sunday, July 5.

The rebel General Pender wounded. Gens. Kemper and Johnson, rebels, are killed. General Farnsworth, of our cavalry, is killed. The rebel losses are estimated at 30,000.

Our troops are in the highest spirits. General Butterfield's wound is more than was expected, but is not at all serious. The rebels abandoned their killed and wounded.

Five Thousand and Fifty Rebel Prisoners at Baltimore.

Baltimore, July 5.

Twenty-three hundred prisoners have just passed along Baltimore street, from the Central railroad depot, and 1,900 more are shortly expected, which will make 5,050 for to-day. This is but a small instalment, it is stated, of all who are to come. In addition to the above number, 830 passed through on Friday night, which will make the entire number so far nearly 6,000.

Cairo, July 7.—The dispatch boat has just arrived here from Vicksburg.

She left at ten o'clock on Sunday morning; the passengers announce that General Pemberton sent in a flag of truce on the morning of the Fourth of July, and offered to surrender if his men were allowed to march out.

Gen. Grant is reported to have replied that no man should leave except as a prisoner of war.

Gen. Pemberton then, after a consultation with his commanders, unconditionally surrendered. This news is perfectly reliable.

THE FIGHT ON THURSDAY.

Operations on the Left and Centre—Terrific Artillery Firing—The Enemy Fall Back—Death of Colonel Cross—Wounding of General Sickles—General Warren, &c.

WESTMINSTER, Friday, July 3.

From the many reports brought here by parties from the battle field we make the following narrative of the battle of Thursday from an officer who was engaged in the battle of that day:

The Fight of Thursday.

The line of battle was formed shortly after eight o'clock, A. M., our centre occupying the heights on this side of Gettysburg, at and near the cemetery, the Second and Third Corps, General Sickles, formed the left wing; the First and Eleventh was on the right.

Skirmishers were immediately thr'n forward along the whole line, in order to feel the enemy's position. Our batteries also shelled the heights and woods, in order, if possible, to develope the place where the enemy intended to mass his forces.

We could elicit no reply from the rebel batteries. Their skirmishers were active, and very often reinforced. The silence was ominous. Shortly after three o'clock P. M., a terrific cannonade was opened upon our centre and left from the rebel batteries, which had quietly been placed in position, having been masked by woods and grain fields. Our rifled guns replied with awful power and telling effect for two hours.

The air seemed literally filled with the screaming messengers of death.—Old soldiers who had heard the roar of cannon at Gaine's Mill, Malvern Hills, Fredericksburg and Chancellorsville declared the cannonading to be equal, if not greater, than at any of those engagements.

Suddenly a demoniac yell from thousands of rebel throats, near the extreme left of our line, told where the enemy were to make their great attack. Sickles' corps sustained the first terrific onset of the rebel forces, which had been massed upon our left.

The rattle of musketry now became incessant; hundreds of wounded came, bleeding and tottering, through the woods to the rear. As soon as the design of the rebels became evident, a large number of pieces of the reserve artillery were massed in a splendid position to oppose the rebel infantry.

At this time the centre and left centre advanced, pushing the rebels, with loud cheers, from point to point thro'h the valley and up the hights beyond.

The enemy was secreted behind trees, rocks and ledges, and in many cases were bayonetted by our troops or taken prisoners. A space of several hundred yards, only covered by skirmishers, existing between the left of the second corps (first division) and the right of the next corps on the left, the rebels threw forward heavy columns of infantry, overpowering the skirmishers and filling the gap, delivering at the same time, a deadly flank fire upon our forces.

It was here that the gallant Colonel Edward E. Cross, of the 5th New Hampshire volunteers, commanding the first brigade, first division, second corps, (Hancock's,) fell mortally wounded; also, General Zook of New York, commanding second brigade. Our forces at this point were compelled to retire, but only for a short distance, as they were soon relieved by fresh troops.

Meanwhile the rebels were slowly gaining ground on the left, advancing in line of battle by brigades, delivering volley after volley.

At that moment it seemed that our decimated but not dispirited ranks would be forced back, when suddenly the fifth army corps came pouring forward on the Baltimore turnpike, and threw themselves into the breach with a power and energy that nothing could withstand.

The volleys of musketry, which heretofore had been distinct and detached, now became one continued and incessant crash.

Our artillery, worked with an energy and desperation almost superhuman, threw in grape, canister and case shot. Four several times the rebels charged upon that park of artillery across the open plain, and four times were they repulsed with terrible slaughter.

The promptness with which this great flank movement of Lee was met and checkmated reflects the highest credit upon the General commanding. Indeed, the troops were handled with consummate ability during the entire day, General meade being in the field, often under a heavy fire, holding everything under his own eye and supervision, in which he was aided and accompanied by his Chief of Staff, the gallant General Governeur K. Warren.

Night came at last, and with her sable mantle in mercy closed the scene.

The result of the day's work may be summed up briefly thus: Lee had been attacked on his chosen ground; our centre had driven the rebel lines more than one mile; the Army of the Potomac, supposed by some to be demoralized, had fought with a gallantry never before equaled during the war; our left was pushed back but very slightly; the great strategic movement had been foiled. Not more than two-thirds of our forces were engaged during the day. Although having suffered severely, especially in officers, we may safely set down the enemy's loss as greater than ours. The army had been fought under a new commander, and with, necessarily, but an imperfect knowledge of the army, with all its appointments.

At dark all the advantages of the day were in our favor, while our troops were inspired with success, and a heavy force, which had not previously been engaged, stood ready to renew the attack on the morrow. The infantry firing ceased at dark, but the cannonading did not stop until near nine o'clock at night, having been kept up with great vigor from our batteries, and weakly replied to by the enemy.

MEN WANTED FOR THE INVALID CORPS.

Only those faithful soldiers who, from wounds or the hardships of war, are no longer fit for active field duty, will be received in this Corps of Honor. Enlistments will be for three years, unless sooner discharged. Pay and allowance same as for officers and men of the United States infantry; except that no premium or bounties for enlistment will be allowed. This will not invalidate any pensions or bounties which may be due for previous services.

For the convenience of service, the men will be selected for three grades of duty. Those who are most efficient and able-bodied, and capable of performing guard duty, etc., will be armed with muskets, and assigned to companies of the First Battalion. Those of the next degree of efficiency, including those who have lost a hand or an arm; and the least effective, including those who have lost a foot or leg, to the companies of the Second or Third Battalions; they will be armed with swords.

The duties will be to act chiefly as provost guards and garrisons for cities; guards for hospitals and other public buildings; and as clerks, orderlies, &c. If found necessary, they may be assigned to forts, &c.

Acting Assistant Provost Marshals General are authorized to appoint officers of the Regular Service, or of the Invalid Corps, to administer the oath of enlistment to those men who have completely fulfilled the prescribed conditions of admission to the Invalid Corps, viz:

1. That the applicant is unfit for service in the field.
2. That he is fit for the duties, or some of them, indicated above.
3. That, if not now in the service, he was honorably discharged.
4. That he is meritorious and deserving.

For enlistment or further information, apply to the Board of Enrollment for the district in which the applicant is a resident.

By order of JAMES B FRY, Provost Marshal General.

Please read the following statements in regard to the operations of our Portable Engines and Circular Saw Mills:

HARTSTOWN, Crawford Co., Pa., May 16, 1863.

MESSRS. J. & J. H. DUVALL,

Gentlemen:—We received our Portable Engine and Saw Mill all in complete order, perfectly satisfied with the Saw Mill and Engine. Everything works to our entire satisfaction, beyond our expectations. We sawed 4,000 feet white-oak boards in five hours, and with good could have sawed more in the same time.

We most cheerfully recommend your Saw Mills and Engines to those wishing to purchase.

Respectfully,

C. REYNOLDS & E. AUDRESS.

For further reference, we would refer you to Samuel Millikin, of Hollidaysburg, Pa., who has one of our first class 20-horse power Portable Engines and Circular Saw Mills in operation at Tipton Station, Blair county, Pa.—He authorized us to say this Mill and Engine has given such entire satisfaction, that, since starting it, he has sent in his second order for a Mill and Engine of same size.

We would also refer you to M. M. Adams, Cresson, Pa., W. B. Zeigler and J. S. Read, Huntingdon, Pa., Burley & Co., Tyrone, Pa., A. J. Holliday, Hollidaysburg, Pa., all of whom have purchased of us.

We ship our Saw Mills and Engines fully equipped and ready for work. We warrant our Machinery to do all that our circular claims for it, and to saw from 6,000 to 10,000 feet of inch lumber per day.
